DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 7-12, 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Soeda et al US 4,356,214.
4. The rejection set forth under 35 USC 102/103 in the paper mailed 11/16/08 is deemed proper and is herein repeated. Applicants arguments have been fully considered but have been found not persuasive. It is alleged by applicant that the claims are not anticipated because the limitation relative to pulverizing the composition at a temperature less than the brittle temperature is not specifically described. This is not persuasive. The art is silent as to the temperature at which the sealant is pulverized. Applicants allege that heating element 13 limits the art to being pulverized at a temperature above the brittle temperature. This is not persuasive. This portion of the art is directed to the extruding of the sealant. There is no discussion as to the temperature at which the sealant is pulverized. Further, there is no actual temperature limitation claimed. This is to say that the actual temperature at which the sealant is pulverized can vary depending upon the property of the sealant. The sealant in the art is pulverized at a temperature. The claims are limited to sealants pulverized at a temperature below the brittle temperature. Relative to the claim limitation, there are two ranges of temperatures. The range of temperatures below the brittle temperature of the sealant, falling within the scope of the claims and, the temperature above the brittle temperature which is outside the scope of the claim. The art does not distinguish between the ranges and is silent as to the actual temperature.

5. Rejections under 35 USC 1032/103 are appropriate when the reference discloses all the limitations of a claim except a property or function, and the examiner cannot determine whether or not the reference inherently possesses properties which anticipate or render obvious the claimed invention but has basis for shifting the burden of proof to applicant as in In re Fitzgerald, 619 F.2d 67, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980). See MPEP § § 2112- 2112.02.

6. The claims are directed to a species of the invention where the sealant is pulverized at a temperature below the brittle temperature. There are two possible alternatives, the temperature is either below the brittle temperature of the sealant, falling within the scope of the claims, or the temperature is above the brittle temperature, falling outside the scope of the claim. Rejections under 35 USC 1032/103 are further appropriate when the reference teaches a small genus which places a claimed species in the possession of the public as in In re Schaumann, 572 F.2d 312, 197 USPQ 5

(CCPA 1978), and the species would have been obvious even if the genus were not sufficiently small to justify a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102. See MPEP §§ 2131.02 and 2144.08 for more information on anticipation and obviousness of species by a disclosure of a genus.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
